- At Citiwest Homes is known for it's one on one service and provide the following services: Residential, commercial & industrial construction, multi-unit developments, architectural design & drafting.
- Many different styles can reflect in a building design, yet true creativity comes in an individual outlook by our designers to each particular project.
- We believe in listening to your individual design requirements so that your dream home can become a reality.
- Whatever your choice in materials or building design style, we can incorporate your ideas into an architectural design that will make your dream home achievable

- From our initial meeting through concept drawings to final working drawings, we provide a professional building design & drafting services second to none.
- Residential development is a complex process that if not performed correctly can be a time consuming and costly exercise. Citiwest Homes depth of experience in residential construction, and in particular multi-unit development, means that we have the systems and expertise to ensure a successful project within a efficient timeframe.
- Citiwest Homes is networked and operational through one of Australia's largest residential home builders. That means we have a resource network of more than 100 full time employees and over 1000 contractors and suppliers.

Multi-Unit Developments

Developing a block can be a daunting experience, especially if it is your first project. When you develop with Citiwest Homes, our expertise will make your experience a positive one. The first thing we do is meet with you to discuss your requirements and budget. We then arrange a site visit with you to view the site. We identify any major obstacles that could effect your plans, like the shape and fall of your block, then arrange a site survey so we both know exactly what we are working with.

After the site survey, we can determine whether your plans are achievable. If they are not, we can re-access and look at alternatives for you. If they are, we then look at some designs to suit your needs and budget. Once you are happy with the design we put together a quotation. This will include a total breakdown and include everything from replacing the neighbour's fence.

We at Citiwest Homes form strong relationships with our clients when we undertake any project. We work very closely with you during the entire process and keep you involved and informed every step of the way. If you are happy with everything to date, we submit to council for planning approval. We request full working drawings and submit for a building permit. Once council has signed off, construction begins. Again, you will be kept well informed as we reach certain milestones.

Our staff have been trained to make weekly courtesy calls to all our current clients to inform them of their job status as previously mentioned. Citiwest Homes is networked and operational through one of Australia's largest residential home builders. That means we have a resource network of more than 100 full time employees and over 1000 contractors and suppliers.
